Adding Supervising Physicians To Your State License Information.

Listing additional supervising physicians or alternate supervising physicians with the State of Wisconsin license information is very simple. It protects you and allows you to continue to practice if your main supervising physician is unable to supervise you for some reason. If you work for a group it is a good idea to add as many supervising physicians as seems practical. Additionally, if you moonlight, you can list those supervising physicians with the state as well.

A letter sent to the state that simply informs them of the additional supervising physicians is all that is necessary. Note in the letter that the primary supervising physician listed on your state license has not changed.

These letters can be sent to:
